Two Sessions: July 30 & August 6, 10:10-11:30 a.m.

Learn about the growth of Washington from swamplands into a bustling city, which captures our country's history. The presentation's background: Dr. Z. is an associate professor of Biology at West Liberty and has taught nutrition to undergraduate and graduate students as well as attending public health physicians. He acts as a question writer for the Certification Board for Nutrition and Dietetics and the Ohio Chapter of the American Dietetic Association.

119 What you always wanted to know about plumbing but were afraid to ask! Ted Owens

Two Sessions: Wednesday, August 13 & August 20, 10-11:30 a.m.

There are no dumb questions, so fire away. There will also be some hands on simple repairs but nothing above your pay grade! You won't have to leave your seat and you won't get dirty!

Presenter's background: Leonard Rinchiuso is an assistant professor of Russian at WLU and an avid student of Russian history, having traveled to Eastern Europe in 2004.

What's the relationship between Ukraine and Russia? Takeover of Crimea and attempts to understand the mindset of events in Eastern Europe. This lecture examines the Russian leadership, including President Vladimir V. Putin, are re-asserting themselves on the world stage after a period of relative obscurity to help the American people understand recent Russian foreign policy.

Presenter's background: Vladimir is a retired educator with over 35 years experience as a history teacher and school administrator. He earned his undergraduate degree at Wheeling College, a major in American History and his master's from WVU. Since his retirement, he has worked as a guide for several international tours to Washington, DC, traveling to the city over 50 times in his career.

115 Ohio Valley Cold Case Task Force, Fred Connors

Thursday, July 31, 10-11:30 a.m.

What does it take to solve a cold case? Currently, there are several cases involving former residents in the Ohio Valley and have yet to be solved. Join us as we talk about these cold cases and how the Task Force is trying to solve them.

Presenter's background: Connors is a native of the Ohio Valley and spent 17 years in the steel industry before embarking on a career as an investigative reporter. He is the founder of the Ohio Valley Cold Case Task Force.

116 Managing the Mob: Using Parliamentary Procedure, Roger Hanshaw

Wednesday, August 21, 1:30-3:00 p.m.

Two Sessions: Wednesday, August 13 & August 20, 1:30-3:00 p.m.

The presentation will cover topics including a overview of the tools from Robert's Rules of Order. Presenter's background: Hanshaw is an attorney in the Charleston office of the law firm of Bowles Rice. He is a professional registered parliamentarian and a certified professional meeting manager. He is a member of Pennwriters, a 500-member organization focused on the professional writing of non-fiction books and articles.

117 Decorating with Fondant, Megan Doyle

Thursday, July 31, 1:30-3:30 p.m.

This class will teach attendees the basic elements in decorating with fondant. It will cover materials, an assortment of techniques, and myths that surround them even today! Feel the heartbeat of America.

Presenter's background: Megan Doyle is a graduate of Art Institute of Charleston and received her Associate Degree in Interior Design.

118 Nutrition for Older Adults, Matthew Zdilla, D.C.

Thursday, August 7, 1:30-3:30 p.m.

Learn the basics of nutrition and special nutritional considerations for mature adults.

Presenter's background: Dr. Z. is an associate professor of Biology at West Liberty and has taught nutrition to undergraduate and graduate students as well as attending public health physicians. He acts as a question writer for the Certification Board for Nutrition and Dietetics and the Ohio Chapter of the American Dietetic Association.

Questions?

Contact Jeff Knierim, Director of Professional Studies, at 304.217.2800 Ext. #2, jknierim@westliberty.edu or contact Dr. Tom Michaud, Director of Community Engagement, at 304.336.8301, e-mail: tmichaud@westliberty.edu, website: westliberty.edu/community-university

Community University at West Liberty

WLU Highlands Center

355 Wharton Circle, Suite 200

Triadelphia, WV 26059

westliberty.edu/community-university

Shown here: Amelia Jeffers, president of the internationally known auction house, Garth's, presents a class to an overflow crowd.
This summer, enroll in the Community University at West Liberty and part of like-minded adults interested in the sheer joy of learning! Community University encourages enthusiastic volunteer presenters and courses shaped by YOUR interests! Courses are conveniently scheduled during the day at the WLU Highlands Center (except courses 104, 105, 108 and 112). There are no entrance requirements, grades or tests — just a love of learning!

Presenters' background:
Angie Zambito-Hill, CFRE
102 Enjoyment of Philanthropy and Volunteerism
Wednesday, July 2, 10-11:30 a.m.
This course takes a look at philanthropy and volunteerism in the modern non-profit sector. It will look at current trends, how the non-profit sector is shaped by YoUR interests! It will examine current trends, how the non-profit sector is shaped by YoUR interests!

Presenter's background:
Angie Zambito-Hill is Director of Development for Davis & Finzer, Inc., a marketing company in Cleveland, Ohio. She has a master's degree in business administration from Case Western Reserve University. Angie is a Certified Fundraising Executive (CFRE) and has served as a volunteer in various philanthropic organizations.

103 How to Read “Unreadable” Books
Jeremy Larance, Ph.D.
Wednesday, July 2, 1:30-3:30 p.m.
From James Joyce's "Ulysses" to William Faulkner's "The Sound and the Fury," why do some classic works of literature have reputations of being unreadable books? Is it a matter of language or comprehension, or is it simply a matter of English professors trying to way too hard to impress their students? Is it possible to enjoy these books? In short, yes — yes it is!

Presenter's background: Dr. Jeremy Larance is a faculty member in the Department of Humanities at WLU where he frequently teaches classes on British literature, sports in popular culture, rhetoric, and public speaking.

104 Eastern Woodland Indians, Travis Henline
Tuesday, July 8, 8-9:30 a.m.
An overview of the Native peoples of the Eastern Woodlands. This talk will focus on some of those buildings and the stories behind them. The historic one-acre West Liberty Cemetery is the final resting place of Col. David McClure (died in 1786). Check out grave of Ann Parker, member in Department of Humanities at WLU where he teaches courses in British literature, sports in popular culture, rhetoric, and public speaking.

Presenter's background: Earl Nicodemus served for 10 years on the Board of Trustees of WLU, a master's in anthropology from the George Washington University and attended archaeological field school at Arizona State University.

105 Historic West Liberty Cemetery Tour,
Earl Nicodemus
Wednesday, July 9, 9-10:30 a.m.
A walking tour of the historic West Liberty Cemetery, which is the final resting place of Col. David McClure (died in 1786). Check out grave of Ann Parker, member in Department of Humanities at WLU where he teaches courses in British literature, sports in popular culture, rhetoric, and public speaking.

Presenter's background: Earl Nicodemus served for 10 years on the Board of Trustees of WLU, a master's in anthropology from the George Washington University and attended archaeological field school at Arizona State University.

106 Tips for Your Cruise Vacation, Keith Lawson
Thursday, July 10, 10-11:30 a.m.
An introduction to cruising the seas, including the following: tips for planning your cruise, the cruise industry, cruising safety, and guidelines for a safe cruise.

Presenter's background: Keith Lawson is a graduate of Grove City College with a bachelor's degree in business administration, and has worked in the cruise industry for over 30 years.

Field Trip to Grave Creek Mound Archaeological Complex, Andrea Keller
Wednesday July 16, 1:30-3:30 p.m.
A trip to the Grave Creek Mound Archaeological Complex. The tour will include a visit to the museum and mound, with a stop at the Interpretive Garden, which is home to a variety of native plants and animals.

Presenter's background: Andrea Keller has served as