Dentists, Hygienists, and Cows

Abstract: What do cows have to do with it anyway? In this course, leave the herding mentality behind while simultaneously cultivating a patient-centered, evidence-based, and naturally profitable periodontal therapy program. We will be farming team unity and career satisfaction in a way only the smallest number of dental professionals have ever seen.

Learning Objectives

Boost problem solving skills that turn an average hygiene routine into a thriving, patient-centered program.

Enhance your patient oral health assessment, financial conversations, and case presentation techniques.

Explore effective utilization of patient radiographs in case presentation.

Discover how to incorporate financial discussions in the operatory with ease and compassion.

Inflammation Avenue: A two-way street

Abstract: Agreeing that there is an oral systemic connection is easy; applying the evidence as a bidirectional highway in a way our patients can understand can be difficult. In this course we will take a deep dive into periodontal disease as it connects to other diseases.

Learning Objectives:

Solidify knowledge of the interconnected nature of inflammatory diseases.

Identify early signs of autoimmune disease in the oral cavity.

Gain confidence discussing medical history findings with patients.

Expand communication and motivational skills in helping patients journey to health.

Body in Balance

Abstract: Don't miss your chance to be on the cutting edge of new and radical information on how our bodies achieve homeostasis. We will learn about the endocannabinoid system (ECS), how it works, and what we can do to support it. Most importantly, we will gain the ability to confidently share the knowledge with our patients.

Learning Objectives

Discover our body's best kept secret: the endocannabinoid system.

Learn ways to reduce pain & inflammation as well as improve sleep & recovery with a healthy endocannabinoid system through lifestyle practices, cannabis, and other herbal supplements.

Explore clinical considerations for optimal patient care.
