Faculty Letter of Appointment

I. Definition

The Letter of Appointment defines the general terms of the faculty member's major responsibilities and areas of significant and reasonable contribution to the university.

II. Process

No later than the Faculty Performance Planning meeting of the first semester of employment (see Policy 214, III. B.), the responsible University administrator (usually the Dean), with the approval of the Provost, shall establish and present the faculty member with the Letter of Appointment. The Letter of Appointment will define the general terms of the faculty member's major responsibilities and Areas of Significant and Reasonable Contribution, consistent with the job description given to the faculty member at the time of their hire. The letter also will include the faculty member's rank, program, highest degree earned, their tenure status, whether they have received credit for previous experience, the transition process and timing to be put on tenure-track (if the faculty member has been hired as non-tenure track) and the critical year for tenure decision (if the faculty member has been hired as tenure track faculty). A generic sample letter is provided in an appendix to this policy.

The terms of this appointment may be changed by mutual consent, consistent with this document, program needs, and other faculty personnel policies (see paragraph C, below). Within the terms of this general apportionment of responsibilities, the details of a faculty member's specific assignments should be subject to joint consultation but are to be determined by the appropriate administrator. One of the areas of significant contribution will always be teaching. The other area of significance will be determined by mutual consent between the Dean, the Chair, and the faculty member.

Since each program or department refines the Areas of Significant and Reasonable Contribution (teaching, professional activity, and service) in ways that reflect the unit's disciplines and mission by developing guidelines or performance factors for annual faculty evaluation (per Policy 214, section III.B), how the unit criteria apply to a faculty member's own set of duties should be clear at the time they are presented with the Letter of Appointment.

III. Modifying the Letter of Appointment

The criteria in the Letter of Appointment may be modified on an individual basis, with significant contribution always required in the area of teaching. Such a modification should be initiated primarily to assist the department or college in achieving its mission and goals, however it may also be made in response to a request by the faculty member. Proposed changes will be made in consultation between the faculty member and Department Chair or Program Director. These require the approval of the Dean of the college and the Provost prior to becoming effective. Any such modification must be made in light of the needs of the academic program. The Letter of Appointment should not need to be changed unless there has been a significant change in the status or responsibilities of the faculty member, for instance, the faculty member switches departments or takes on teaching duties in another department, takes on administrative responsibilities in a program, department, or college, etc., or if the needs of the program have changed.

Modifications to the Letter of Appointment will be noted in attachments to the initial Letter.
